OVERVIEW OF EXAMINATION DEVELOPMENT PROCESS 9

PURPOSE

This handbook is designed to provide candidates with general information regarding the clerical examination process. The handbook consists of useful information to help candidates prepare for the examination.

OVERVIEW OF CLERICAL EXAMINATION PLAN

The content of the new examination plan is based on the job tasks, and knowledge, skills and abilities determined to be critical to overall successful job performance.

The clerical examination plan consists of 19 knowledge, skill and ability areas. Each of the 19 KSAs are defined in this candidate handbook. It is important that candidates prepare for the examination by studying the clerical examination plan.

EXAMINATION ITEMS

The clerical examination contains approximately 100 multiple-choice items. You will have approximately 3 hours to complete the examination. The examination may contain additional items for the purpose of pre-testing items. These pre-test items are not scored. Pre-testing allows performance data to be gathered and evaluated before items become scoreable in an examination. These pre-test items distributed throughout the examination, WILL NOT be counted for or against you in your score, and will not be identified. Also, there are some classifications that may require an additional subtest to be administered. If additional subtests are administered, additional examination time may be allotted.

There is only one correct answer for each item. The “incorrect” answers are typically common errors and misconceptions, true but not relevant statements, or incorrect statements.

SAMPLE TEST ITEMS

Below are sample test items that allow you to understand the type of questions that will be asked, as well as, the formatting of the questions in the examination. These sample questions will not be included on the examination. They have been included in the handbook for you to use as a reference. Please note there are not sample questions for all content areas of the test. However, each item included in the examination will be multiple-choice, include a question and four responses. There is only one correct answer per question. The correct response for each of the sample questions below is bolded and italicized.

Sample Items: Reading Ability

As part of a clerk's responsibility he/she is required to maintain a log of files that are checked out by other agencies. As files are checked out of the office, they are listed on a log sheet by the clerk.

Carroll Williams comes into the office at 8:45 a.m. to check out a file consisting of police aide information. She works for the Sheriff's Department. Jill Jackson comes in at 8:50 a.m. to check out a file consisting of court documents. She works for the Public Defender's office. After these two drop-ins, the clerk did not have anyone come in until two hours later; then, Chad Lucky from the Police Department came in to check out a file consisting of warrant information.

A half hour past 4:00 p.m., the clerk had one person come in to check out a file. Phil Hart checked out a file consisting of probation information. He works for the Probation Department.

The log for the day was recorded by the clerk as follows:

Line	Time	Name of Person	File	Department

OVERVIEW OF EXAMINATION DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

The following information is provided for those interested in understanding the examination development process used for the clerical examination.

The development of the clerical examination program began with a job analysis study, most recently completed by Recruitment and Assessment Services, Department of Human Resources in 2009. A job analysis is a method for identifying the tasks performed on a job and the knowledge, skills, and abilities (KSAs) needed to perform that job.

The results from the job analysis study form the basis of the clerical examination, demonstrating that the examination is job-related. The 2009 job analysis evaluated 75 clerical and secretarial classifications used in the City. Current incumbents in the 75 classes received a questionnaire consisting of job tasks and knowledge, skills, and abilities. In the questionnaire the incumbents were asked to rate the job tasks on how often they are performed and how critical they are to overall successful performance on the job. They were also asked to rate the knowledge, skills, and abilities on whether they are expected at entry into the job and to what degree and how critical is the knowledge, skill, and ability to overall performance of the job. The questionnaire was emailed out through Survey Monkey to approximately 2,500 permanent civil service clerical and secretarial incumbents. A group of subject matter experts (SMEs) (e.g., Supervisors of clerical and secretarial classifications) reviewed the results of the questionnaire. These SMEs then established the content of the new examination plan based on the job tasks, and knowledge, skills, and abilities determined to be critical to overall successful job performance, therefore, forming a valid clerical examination plan.

The clerical examination is developed and maintained by Recruitment and Assessment Services (RAS), Department of Human Resources. RAS staff is trained to develop and analyze classification examinations. RAS staff conducts item writing and review meetings with subject matter experts (e.g., Current incumbents and/or supervisors of clerical and secretarial classifications) and performs item analysis to validate the content of the examination. All of the scoreable items in the examination have been written and reviewed by subject matter experts and are based on the job-related knowledge, skills, and abilities contained in the examination plan.
