Executive Summary

Priorities for Advancing Racial Equity in City Employment

The San Francisco Department of Human Resources (DHR) has prepared this Racial Equity Action Plan pursuant to the Board of Supervisors' Ordinance No. 188-19 Administrative Code - Office of Racial Equity.¹

DHR is committed to expanding the diversity of the City's workforce and to providing employees within DHR and citywide with workplaces that are welcoming, inclusive and supportive.

DHR is at a crossroads. DHR recognizes its responsibility in setting the tone and providing leadership for city departments to improve human resources strategies and outcomes. DHR's professional human resources staff is eager to innovate, while also ensuring fair administration of the City's complex human resources systems. DHR is committed to expanding partnerships with departments, labor and the Civil Service Commission, to ensure fairness, consistency and excellence in human resources.

The Racial Equity Action Plan describes DHR's priorities to advance racial equity within the City's diverse workplaces. The priorities and action plans described here align with the equity priorities of the Mayor, as set forth by Executive Directive 18-02.² Phase I of the Racial Equity Action Plan addresses the internal departmental operations of DHR, including its policies and procedures. Additionally, as DHR is the centralized personnel agency within the City structure, this report considers citywide policies and programs.

This report is a working document that will be updated as implementation plans move forward. It will serve as a foundation for the department's strategic plan as DHR expands its mandated role from the caretaker of the civil service merit system, which is heavily rule-driven, to a modern human resources business partner.

Mission and Vision Statement. This report incorporates DHR's commitment to racial equity, through development and execution of fair and equitable practices to hire, develop, support and retain a highly qualified, diverse and empowered workforce. The Office of Racial Equity Action Plan Phase I aligns with DHR's existing Mission and Vision statement, which is to deliver high quality services to San Francisco's diverse communities through innovation, collaboration and human-centered values. Central to achieving this mission is ensuring the Department of Human Resources and Citywide workplaces are inclusive, equitable and supportive for all employees.

The values of the Department of Human Resources, listed below, are consistently seen throughout this report and improvements in these areas are in part, how we will measure success overtime. Our dedication to these values across all functions is at the core of who we are:

1. Retain top talent while shaping the future workforce
2. Utilize technology for service delivery and accessibility
3. Employee well-being, satisfaction and engagement
4. Champion diversity, fairness and equity

5. Design and implement efficient hiring practices
6. Partner with others to solve problems

Organization of Report. This report follows the template provided by the Office of Racial Equity and addresses the following six focus areas:

- Hiring and Recruitment
- Retention and Promotion
- Discipline and Separation
- Diverse and Equitable Leadership
- Mobility and Professional Development
- Organizational Culture of Inclusion and Belonging

Areas of Concentration. Based on the findings from DHR's 2020 Annual Workforce Report, Phase I,³ DHR has identified the following five areas of concentration to improve experiences and outcomes for the City's Black and LatinX/Hispanic⁴ employees and applicants:

- 1) Barriers to Entry and Promotion. While the tools available to the City to recruit and hire based on specific race-based targets are limited by the California Constitution,⁵DHR, in collaboration with city departments, can take steps despite these limitations to attract and retain top talent from communities of color. Subject to resource availability, these steps will include development and implementation of pipeline strategies, identification and communications to employees of career ladders and opportunities, and expansion of training and development to increase likelihood of advancement of the City's Black and LatinX workforce and improving Black and LatinX outcomes in the civil service and exempt competitive hiring processes.
- 2) Workplace Climate. Multiple indicators have revealed that many city employees do not experience welcoming or inclusive workplaces. From its role providing citywide human resources support and programs, DHR has either started, or is planning to launch, the following initiatives: lead and refine implicit bias trainings; improve response time and intervention strategies when allegations of mistreatment are brought to DHR's attention; conduct a pilot program to make trained peer mediators available to employees for resolution of workplace conflicts; and support the development of emerging departmental Diversity, Equity and Inclusion programs including efforts to hire and support Ombud's functions.
- 3) Black and LatinX Employee Discipline. As documented in DHR's 2020 Annual Workforce Report, Phase I, Black and LatinX employees are disciplined at a greater rate than White or Asian employees in relation to their total proportion of the workforce. DHR seeks to understand and address the root causes of these disparities in discipline, which, in accordance with the Charter, originates with Appointing Officers of each city department. To this end, DHR proposes to establish a dedicated function for review and oversight of proposed discipline, with the primary focus on the initial due process procedures and on ensuring consistency in the imposition of major discipline (defined as suspensions greater than 10 days and terminations, including “last chance” agreements).

- 4) Equal Employment Opportunity.⁶ DHR’s Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Division, which is responsible for investigation of claims over EEO policy violations, processes on average 535 complaints each year.⁷

Black employee complaints constitute approximately half of the total complaints filed each year⁸, despite Black employees constituting 15.2%⁹ percent of the total workforce. Many of these employees have expressed deep dissatisfaction with the process and outcomes, as expressed in multiple public hearings and complaints. In September 2020, DHR experienced a major breach of protocol, when an employee of DHR’s EEO Division entered into an unauthorized settlement agreement with a complainant, which then had to be reversed.¹⁰ In November 2020, the Mayor announced that DHR had commissioned an independent and comprehensive review of the City’s workplace policies and practices with a focus on claims of bias, harassment, discrimination, and retaliation, led by Stanford Law School Professor Emeritus William B. Gould IV (see Appendix C).

- 5) Pay Equity. DHR’s 2020 Annual Workforce Report, Phase I, found that Black employees overall are paid less than other groups of employees. As discussed in a Section Two of this plan, employee pay is set through collective bargaining. The City Charter mandates consideration of local labor markets and internal equity in determining pay rates. DHR conducts area-wide wage surveys in advance of each bargaining cycle, which provides the underlying justification for overall and targeted wage increases. Based on the extensive and ongoing work that is done to ensure that pay rates remain competitive within the local area labor markets, wage inequities may be a result of distribution of races and ethnicities across the City’s pay ranges. In the early 1980s, the City conducted a multi-year pay equity study, which identified that many male-dominated occupations were paid, at the time, relatively more than occupations dominated by women, even though the requirements for performance of duties were similar. This resulted in significant upward adjustments of female and

⁶ The City and County of San Francisco (City) is committed to equal employment opportunity. It is DHR’s policy to ensure:

- Equal opportunity to all employees and applicants;
- That employees be selected and promoted based on merit and without discrimination;
- Reasonable accommodations for qualified employees and applicants that require them.

The City, including DHR, prohibits discrimination and harassment on the basis of sex, race, age, religion, color, national origin, ancestry, physical disability, mental disability, medical condition (associated with cancer, a history of cancer, or genetic characteristics), HIV/AIDS status, genetic information, marital status, sexual orientation, gender, gender identity, gender expression, military and veteran status, or other protected category under the law minority-dominated occupations. The City could again undertake a similar study, however, this would require significant resources and time. DHR proposes working with the Mayor and the Office of Racial Equity to evaluate whether such a study would prove useful in advancing racial equity measures within City employment.

⁸ The DHR employee immediately resigned when the unauthorized settlement agreement was exposed.

Conclusion. The Department of Human Resources is committed to merit-based employment free of bias and nepotism. Achieving such a system necessitates addressing the root causes of any race- based disparities in City employment. We are committed to achieving our collective vision of a diverse, inclusive and welcoming workforce for everyone. Working with our city departments and elected leadership, we are committed to implementing the action items enumerated in this report. While each change is not enough on its own to eliminate discrimination and the impacts of racism, the cumulative effect of multiple changes can make a very real and positive shift in the City's workplace culture.

The Department of Human Resources

Role and Responsibilities

The City and County of San Francisco (the “City”) is a consolidated local government employer that serves San Francisco residents and the Bay Area region through its city, county and special district functions. Together, the City employs approximately 35,557¹¹ full and part-time employees and is the second largest employer in San Francisco County, after the University of California, San Francisco. City employees provide essential services to San Francisco residents, ranging from typical county functions such as health care and human services, to typical city functions such as police and fire services, libraries and recreation and parks.

The civil service system, established in 1900, was designed to create a non-political workforce selected based on merit, and to eliminate nepotism and favoritism from City employment. In many areas of the City’s civil service system, the Civil Service Commission (the “Commission”) sets policy while DHR provides day-to-day operational administration and management. The Department of Human Resources was established by Proposition L in November 1993.¹² It is the successor agency to the original Civil Service Commission, which was a quasi-independent, fixed-term Commission responsible for administration and regulation of the merit system, and importantly, appointed its own General Manager, which served at the pleasure of the Civil Service Commission. This changed to the present structure the adoption of Charter section 10.103.

In accordance with Charter section 10.103, DHR is responsible for the day-to-day administration and management of personnel matters, with certain notable exceptions, discussed later in this report. It consolidated labor negotiations,¹³ administration of the civil service personnel system, and workers’ compensation under a new Department of Human Resources (DHR). Proposition L also created the position of Human Resources Director to oversee the new Department; the Human Resources Director is one of three executive-level, Mayoral-appointed positions in the Charter that must be confirmed by the

¹¹ Employee count as of 7/1/2020

¹² DHR is the City’s centralized personnel agency. The City Charter Article x: Personnel Administration Sec.10.103. Human Resources Director enumerates DHR’s role and responsibilities, as follows:

- 1) Have full power to administer the affairs of the Department;
- 2) Review and resolve allegations of discrimination as defined in Article XVII of this Charter against employees or applicants, or otherwise prohibited nepotism or favoritism;
- 3) Investigate all employee complaints concerning job-related conduct of City and County employees and shall promptly report to the source of the complaint;
- 4) Promote effective and efficient management through personnel programs that encourage productivity, job satisfaction and exemplary performance;
- 5) Provide a procedure for resolution of employee disputes;
- 6) Verify that all persons whose names appear on City and County payrolls have been legally appointed to or employed in positions legally established under this Charter.

¹³San Francisco Charter Article XI: Employer-Employee Relations System states: “The Human Resources Director shall submit proposed memoranda of understanding including, where applicable, schedules of compensation, benefits and working conditions to the Mayor, who upon approval shall forward the proposed memoranda of understanding to the Board of Supervisors for determination by a majority vote.”

Board of Supervisors. The Civil Service Commission retained its authority as an appellate body as well as over certain aspects of rulemaking.¹⁴

Employee Relations. In 1968, the California legislature adopted the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act, which gave city and county employees in California broad rights to unionize and obligated their employers to “meet and confer” with unions concerning compensation and other terms and conditions of employment. Article XI of the Charter vests the authority to oversee and direct labor relations with the Mayor, with DHR overseeing day-to-day administration of all labor relations responsibilities.¹⁵

San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency. In 1999, the voters amended the Charter to establish the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency (“SFMTA”) and giving SFMTA authority over labor relations for “service critical” SFMTA employees. The Charter amendment also assigned to SFMTA the authority to review and resolve discrimination complaints for all SFMTA employees (not just those designated service critical).

Taken as a whole, the Civil Service System is designed to create a non-political workforce selected based on merit, and to eliminate nepotism and favoritism from City employment. Today, resulting from Proposition L and related Charter Amendments, DHR is responsible for, in whole or in part, conducting civil service examinations, recruitment, hiring, training, promotions, maintenance of the classifications and compensation program, employee discipline and discharge, and many other personnel-related activities. The work of DHR is carried out either directly by DHR staff, or through delegation agreements with various City Departments, including Public Health, Public Utilities, Human Services Agency and others.

DHR Today. DHR is comprised of eight divisions with 176.3 budgeted FTE, of which the Workers’ Compensation Division is approximately 40%. See the division descriptions below.

Finance & Administration Division provide internal administrative support to ensure efficient department operations.

¹⁴ San Francisco Charter Article X: Personnel Administration Sec.10.100. Civil Service Commission:

“The Civil Service Commission shall adopt rules, policies and procedures to carry out the civil service merit system provisions of this charter and, except as otherwise provided in this Charter, such rules shall govern applications; examinations; eligibility; duration of eligible lists; certification of eligibles; leaves of absence for employees and officers; appointments; promotions; transfers; resignations; lay-offs or reduction in force, both permanent and temporary, due to lack of work or funds, retrenchment or completion of work; the designation and filling of positions, as exempt, temporary, provisional, part-time, seasonal or permanent; status and status rights; probationary status and the administration of probationary periods, except duration; pre-employment and fitness for duty medical examinations, except for the conditions under which referrals for fitness for duty examinations will be made, and the imposition of new requirements; classification; conflict of interest; and such other matters as are not in conflict with this Charter; provided, however, that the minimum rule for the certification of eligibles shall be the Rule of Three Scores, and provided further that rules for leave due to illness or disability shall be approved by the Board of Supervisors.”

¹⁵ San Francisco Charter Article XI: Employer-Employee Relations System states: “The Human Resources Director shall submit proposed memoranda of understanding including, where applicable, schedules of compensation, benefits and working conditions to the Mayor, who upon approval shall forward the proposed memoranda of understanding to the Board of Supervisors for determination by a majority vote.”¹⁵

- Emergency Planning coordinates the acquisition, tracking, orientation/training, and support of non-safety response personnel to ensure that the City has the human resources it needs in order to respond to, and recover from, a disaster. DHR will coordinate the Disaster Service Worker (DSW) program and establishes Emergency Volunteer Centers (EVCs).
- Hiring Modernization Team leads a collaborative effort to improve hiring. The collaboration will ensure changes to the way we hire result in fair, effective and modern processes for applicants, hiring managers, human resources professionals, and others. This project is merit-based, user-centered, data-driven and ongoing.

Classification and Compensation (CLASS and COMP) classifies the City's positions and manages Memoranda of Understanding (MOUs) and the Municipal Code related to compensation. In addition, Classification and Comp supports the civil service system through management of classification actions and appeals, labor negotiations through performance of salary surveys, costing, and contract administration, and payroll through establishment and maintenance of rates of pay, premiums and lump sum payments.

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) partners with other City departments and lead citywide efforts to create more equitable, inclusive workplaces where all City employees feel valued, respected, and engaged at work.

Employee Relations Division (ERD) negotiates and administers the provisions of collective bargaining agreements between the City and labor organizations representing City employees. ERD staff advises department personnel representatives in interpreting contract provisions, manages and reviews grievances related to contract interpretation and disciplinary action, determines bargaining unit assignments of City classifications, and conducts meet and confer sessions within the scope of representation.

Employment Services (ES) division includes Client Services Consulting, Miscellaneous Exams, Public Safety Exams, Operations, and Selection Hiring Resources.

- Client Services Consulting (CS-HR) provides human resources (HR) solutions to all City departments on employment, personnel and disciplinary matters, as well as Civil Service Commission (CSC) rule application through direct and indirect services.
- Miscellaneous Exams (ES-ME) is responsible for all Citywide examinations except for sworn ranks in San Francisco Fire Department, San Francisco Police Department, and San Francisco Sheriff's Office. This includes conducting comprehensive job analyses in order to create valid, job-related examination and selection processes for citywide positions, and as well as provide training and consultation to City departments regarding best practices for developing examination and selection processes, utilizing the applicant tracking and examination administration systems.
- Public Safety Exam Team (ES-PST) is responsible for developing and administering complex, state-of-the-art, legally defensible selection processes for the sworn ranks of the San Francisco Fire Department, San Francisco Police Department, and San Francisco Sheriff's Office. This begins with comprehensive, detail-oriented job analyses through eligible list posting for 23 ranks across the three departments. It also works collaboratively with nationally renowned psychometric consultants who may be hired to assist in the development and administration of these examinations.

- Operations (ES-OPS) is responsible for list adoptions, citywide referrals, appointment processing, the Employment Information Center and the Conviction History Program, which includes supporting the public, applicants and departments during the hiring process, while ensuring practices are unbiased and merit-based.

Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) and Leave Programs provides direct services and consultation to all City departments, including investigating and resolving discrimination issues, harassment prevention and other staff training, reasonable accommodation for individuals with disabilities, and establishing citywide leave management policies and protocols. EEO also prepares workforce composition reports.

Workers' Compensation Division (WCD) administers workers' compensation benefits and all other benefits related to work injuries and illnesses, in compliance with state and local laws and regulations, and coordinates citywide safety and prevention efforts.

Workforce Development (WD) is committed to the professional and personal development of the City's workforce. WD, in collaboration with other educational partners, develops and integrates an extensive curriculum of workshops designed to enhance individual or group capabilities. WD also provides data on the City's workforce, performance management services, recruitment services, and citywide fellowship and apprenticeship program coordination.

- Diversity Recruitment Team (DRT) recruits highly qualified candidates, educates the community and job seekers, identifies pathway opportunities, and collaborates with city departments to engage a diverse applicant pool for City employment.

Section 1: Hiring and Recruitment

DHR is responsible for administering a fair and merit-based selection and hiring process for all applicants who wish to become City employees. DHR has direct responsibility over various steps of this process, including setting policies and developing procedures, sharing recommended best practices, designing and conducting exams, maintaining the applicant tracking system, conducting centralized conviction history review, and auditing departmental actions. DHR has delegated some of its authority to hiring teams in 30 departments. In addition, through its Workforce Development Division, DHR is focusing on innovation in recruitment through active cultivation of “pipeline” development strategies targeting applications from candidates with diverse backgrounds.

Building a roadmap for future improvements to the hiring and selection process requires a cross department team of experts. DHR’s Hiring Modernization Team (HMT) will continue to convene the HR Modernization steering committee, created in 2017, which includes citywide human resource professionals and city leaders interested in improving government performance.

In the coming years, DHR will focus on several key initiatives in order to strengthen the Department and the City’s work in recruiting and hiring diverse talent at all levels in the organization. These initiatives are:

Applicant Tracking System. DHR has procured a modern applicant tracking system which will process approximately 150,000 applications annually. The new system will allow DHR and departments to identify delays in the hiring process, analyze where candidates are learning about job opportunities, and conduct proactive outreach to diverse candidates. Along with the new system, DHR will be working collaboratively to modify business processes, change policies and provide training for HR analysts and hiring managers. Taken together, these steps will ensure that the City’s application process is easier to navigate for all users, and that time to hire is more rapid.

Engage Diverse Candidates through Proactive Recruitment and Pipeline Programs.

DHR will review, in collaboration with department HR leaders and Civil Service staff, core components of the hiring process and identify areas where reforms or updates may be needed. This will include changes to policies, procedures, and new training and guidance. As well as, a review of Minimum Qualifications, the use of Supplemental Questionnaires, and the Post Referral Selection Process (including interview questions).

DHR will build on the Workforce Development (WD) Division’s diversity recruitment and pathway programs. These programs provide an opportunity for the participant employee to build work experience, learn essential job-related skills, and prepare for the opportunity to qualify for Permanent Civil Service positions. These training programs often yield diverse participants with a range of skills (from technical to trades to professional). DHR’s programs currently include:

- Access to City Employment Program (ACE/ Rule 115)
- Apprenticeship SF
- San Francisco Fellows
- 1249 HR Analyst Trainee Program and 1241 Self-Study Program

In addition, the WD Division’s Diversity Recruitment Team (DRT) will continue to build new partnerships in the community, offer best practices, recruitment tools, and learning opportunities to HR professionals throughout the city in order to proactively reach new people who are interested in public service.

Section 2: Retention and Professional Development

With a workforce of approximately 36,000 employees, the City and County of San Francisco is a major employer in the Bay Area. As a consolidated local government, it offers career opportunities in a broad range of occupations, among them are health care, infrastructure, finance and accounting, planning, social services, and transportation. With over 1,000 job classifications and multiple avenues for promotion, the City is well-positioned to retain and reward its employees, through fair compensation and promotional opportunities.

The City’s merit system is designed to encourage career employment, but some employees find their career advancement hindered. DHR and all city departments seek to foster excellence in the civil service, and when appropriate, reward excellence with advancement. However, some employees leave the City, sometimes because they become dissatisfied with their apparent lack of opportunity for advancement. DHR, in partnership with city departments, can and should create systems to understand, document, and where possible remediate employee dissatisfaction with city employment. Standardizing exit interviews, further detailed in Section 6, will allow for trends on why city employees leave city employment.

The chart below indicates that while Black and LatinX employees are overrepresented in entry level positions in proportion to the total number of entry level employees, they are underrepresented in supervisory and mid-level managerial positions in proportion to the total number of supervisory and mid-managerial positions.

Thus, DHR will focus its activities on strategies for increasing promotions of qualified Black and LatinX employees, including better defining career ladders, improved communications with employees on available opportunities, expanding exam preparation training opportunities, and making full use of de-identification in the selection process in order to eradicate racial bias in the promotion process.

Additionally, DHR will work with city departments to ensure employees have access to the City's workplace benefits programs, such as flexible schedules and telecommuting, in order to provide employees tools needs to fully contribute will still maintaining a sustainable work/life balance. While these benefits are currently available to many city employees, through updated guidelines and policies, DHR will work to ensure these opportunities are widely publicized and distributed in a non-biased manner.

2.1 Ensure stronger protections for workers of color given anticipated COVID-19 related deployment, budget shortfalls, hiring freezes, layoffs, and furloughs

Assignments challenge employees by giving them the opportunity to work with support beyond the comfort zone of their normal work duties in order to learn new skills. Q3 FY21-22: DHR will document and present these best practices to the City’s human resource professionals.	Existing Staff Time	Acting/interim staff process included in internal policies and processes Increased awareness of process for acting/interim staff	In Progress	Client Services Classification and Compensation

In recent years, some employees have raised concerns that the Management Test Battery (MTB) may be disproportionately screening out otherwise qualified Black and LatinX candidates. FY 22-23: DHR will review examination results and adjust accordingly, in consultation as needed with Departments, employee organizations and other interested parties.	Existing Staff Time		Not Started	Miscellaneous Exams

Section 3: Corrective Action, Discipline, and Separation

Corrective actions are steps that respond to employee performance concerns or misconduct; the actions address the root causes of the conduct to prevent reoccurrence. Corrective action may include non-disciplinary steps such as counseling, training, performance improvement plans and probationary extensions. Corrective action may also include discipline, such as written warnings, suspensions, and dismissal or release from employment. Under Charter section 4.126, Appointing Officers, not the Human Resources Director or DHR, are responsible for administration and management of their departments, including ensuring that performance and conduct standards are met and administering corrective action if they are not.

The concept of “just cause” discipline, which is the basis for corrective action and is typically metered out progressively, and with increasing severity if the performance or behavior is not corrected. The fundamental objective is not to discipline an employee to the point of termination, but rather to provide the employee with direction, guidance, motivation, and support to correct the deficiencies or conduct before discipline is escalated. This is the underlying concept to Progressive Discipline. To encourage compassionate and thoughtful use of the Progressive Discipline, supervisor training and support is essential. DHR will be augmenting the existing 24+ Training for Managers and Supervisors to further emphasize expectation setting, coaching, performance management, conflict management, and equitable discipline and corrective action.

DHR has begun to invest more resources into alternative dispute programs. DHR will work with city departments to assess the feasibility of the implementation of a ‘Just Discipline’ or other restorative discipline models, accounting for the resources (human and financial) that would be needed to implement this change.

The Department of Human Resources’ current role in the disciplinary process is as follows: 1) DHR offers training, certification, and advice for “Skelly” officers, who are selected by Appointing Officers or their designees to conduct pre-disciplinary due process or “Skelly” hearings and issue recommendations as to whether proposed discipline is supported by the evidence and reasonable given the charges; 2) DHR’s Client Services Consulting Division representatives often serve as the Appointing Officer’s designee in the process, limited to small departments that do not have human resources professionals on their staff; 3) If the disciplined employee’s union challenges discipline through the grievance procedure under the MOU, the Employee Relations Division (ERD) can work with the union and the department to resolve the grievance, which may include reaching agreement to reduce the discipline imposed; 4) ERD also provides an independent review of discipline if a grievance challenging discipline is advanced to the ERD step of the grievance process and can reach agreement to resolve the grievance, including by to amend or reverse reduction in discipline; and 5) When a permanent civil servant is terminated, the Human Resources Director is required to determine whether, and to what extent, future city employment restrictions are placed on the terminated employee. This decision, like many other employment-related decisions of the Human Resources Director, is appealable to the Civil Service Commission.

If discipline is administered exactly proportionally for each demographic group, the chart below would show 0% for each group. As seen in the figure below, Black and LatinX employees are over-represented in corrective action and discipline when compared to their share of the permanent civil service workforce and Asian and White employees are underrepresented in their share of discipline and corrective action.

The Department of Human Resources plans to leverage its role in the disciplinary process to review and analyze the data and identify any root causes for these disparities, to assist Appointing Authorities, their designees and representatives in identifying and addressing and correcting any structural or other biases in managing and responding to performance and conduct concerns and to increase, where possible, learning opportunities for supervisors and managers whose duties include managing performance and addressing workplace conduct.

3.1.1 Track disciplinary actions and analyze subsequent disaggregated data. Pay special attention to data pointing to biases against staff of color.	Current Conditions: On September 19, 2018, Mayor Breed issued an Executive Directive to ensure City workplaces are diverse, fair and inclusive, in all areas from recruitment and competition, employment practices, and employee discipline. In accordance with Mayor Breed’s Executive Directive 18-02, Ensuring a Diverse, Fair, and Inclusive City Workplace, all City departments will begin reporting discipline to DHR so that potential problematic areas, divisions, or other trouble spots can be quickly identified and addressed. This reporting also ensures greater transparency in employee discipline across all City departments and enables better monitoring of employee discipline across all City Departments. To assist departments in collecting this data, DHR has partnered with the Controller’s Office People & Pay Division to create a PeopleSoft database. 3.2.4 Develop an online interactive employee handbook centered on equity and transparency.	Q4 FY21-22: An equity centered employee handbook is a pivotal policy document that communicates the importance of all city policies to employees. The employee handbook, last edited in 2012, will be updated with inclusive language, easy to read policy summaries, and linked resources. The updated employee handbook will provide details on job KSAs, progressive discipline, the underpinnings of the City’s disciplinary process, and additional transparency around what is subject to progressive discipline. The employee handbook can be well-linked to the New Employee Orientation program and to the updated Onboarding online module the Instructional Design team will be working on in 2021. FY22-23: Once the employee handbook is updated and published, DHR will create a supervisor best practices guideline about sharing expectations with employees at the time of hire and throughout the year, as well as tips on how to explain policies clearly to employees.	Existing Staff Time	Online interactive Employee Handbook published	In Progress	Policy Division

Section 4: Diverse and Equitable Leadership

Diversity in leadership brings a variety of perspectives and experiences to a leadership team. A diverse team views leadership through a unique lens, whether that is their collective approach to problem solving including greater likelihood of awareness and consideration of unintended adverse impacts by any given planned action or decision, or the amount and quality of resources devoted to infusing equity and diversity considerations in hiring and recruitment strategies.

Executive staff leadership is diverse with eight members and 16 percent representation equally distributed across all races.

DHR identified 29 employees as management, 15% of the department's staff, these employees are were identified by union representation (Mgt. Unrepresented Employees and the Municipal Exec Association).

The chart below shows the percentage makeup of the total DHR workforce's race/ethnicity compared to the race/ethnicity percentage makeup of DHR management. Asian and Filipino employees were underrepresented and White and Black employees were overrepresented in the composition of management positions when compared with DHR's total workforce.

DHR supervisor/managers percentage by race/ethnicity compared to the race/ethnicity DHR workforce percentage:

Race/Ethnicity	% of DHR Workforce	% of Supervisors/Managers
American Indian/Alaskan Native	.5%	0%
Asian	27%	7%
Black	11%	21%
Filipino	16%	7%
Hispanic	11%	14%
Multiracial	2%	0%
White	33%	52%

4.1 Commit to developing a diverse and equitable leadership that will foster a culture of inclusion and belonging.

4.1.4 Implement a simple process to submit anonymous input to senior leadership. Develop a plan to respond to such input.	Current Conditions: DHR has established an anonymous feedback form requesting DHR staff to submit ideas, comments, or concerns regarding equity in the DHR workplace. The feedback from DHR employees is about DHR’s work climate, environment, and culture. This form is live, but leadership will be consistently advertising its availability with staff to encourage usage. FY21-22: Senior staff will look at the responses to this anonymous form and will report to staff, on a quarterly basis on the feedback provided through the form and the changes that it inspired. By showing employees the feedback is acted upon, DHR hopes to encourage participation in the feedback process and assure employees there will not be subject to retribution for filing concerns. Section 5: Mobility and Professional Development

Professional development creates access to opportunities beyond the job an individual employee performs; it is also key to a successful, continuous, and well-functioning government. Investments in training and continuing education programs, helps to create opportunities within the department for professional development. As written about in DHR's 2020 Annual Workforce Report, Phase I coaching, mentorships, and stretch assignments foster opportunities for new learning and skills development that broaden and employees experience and well situates them for promotions within city government.

The Workforce Development Division's Diversity Recruitment Team has begun to identify classifications where diversity is lost at higher levels of a classification series. DHR will adapt this Citywide assessment within its own workforce and apply targeted professional development strategies where diversity declines at higher levels of an identified class series.

The DHR Workforce Development Division is developing a learning program that will engage employees in important discussions on topics such as racism and the intergenerational trauma that racism causes. DHR is also piloting a 21-Day Challenge learning series that will eventually be launched on a larger scale citywide. They will also enhance the 24-Plus training program for new managers and supervisors to include additional topics on equity and fairness and will continue to provide mandatory Implicit Bias and Harassment Prevention Training.

5.1.4 Encourage participation in professional development by sharing external opportunities that are related to the department’s missions and goals. Provide financial support for paid opportunities.	Current Conditions: See 5.1.2. DHR’s updated Travel and Training policy emphasizes training opportunities available to all employees. Each DHR Division has its own share of travel and training funds, but these funds are already very limited in normal years and extremely limited due to budget constraints related to COVID-19. Ongoing: Division heads will ensure training is encouraged and that employees’ share of travel and training funds are accessed equitably.	Existing Staff Time	# of staff participating in outside professional development opportunities	Policy Completed	DHR Personnel Officer
5.1.5 Track professional and skill development and assess annually, specifically looking to target underrepresented staff of color.	February 2021: Workforce Development has completed a Training Demographics report that includes data on which DHR staff have participated in trainings over the last three years. If there are disproportionalities by race or gender identified, DHR will develop a strategy to engage individuals who did not regularly participate in trainings. FY22-23: Increase professional development and training opportunities for DHR staff who did not regularly participate in trainings or professional development opportunities	Needed: Additional Financial Support for Expanded Travel, and Training	Increased % of DHR employees trained	In Progress	Workforce Development

5.2 Encourage collaboration between staff and supervisors that are consistent and thoughtful.

Section 6: Organizational Culture of Inclusion and Belonging

The Department of Human Resources is responsible for both the internal workplace culture and the culture of all employees across 60 departments within the City and County of San Francisco. An inclusive and positive workplace culture consists of shared beliefs and values of belonging and lifting up of the diversity of backgrounds and experiences. These values are established by leaders at the top and reinforced through various methods, ultimately shaping employee perceptions, behaviors, understanding, and experiences.

DHR has implemented several strategies to foster an inclusive work environment and increase learning of equity principles. The DHR Racial Equity Workgroup meets regularly to discuss a range of issues related to race and systemic impacts of racism in society and the workplace. The Access to City Employment (ACE) program provides a pathway into city government for individuals with disabilities. Yet, there remains much more work to be done.

In the upcoming year, DHR will undergo a review and revision of the department’s mission, vision and values to underscore and further embed racial equity into all of the work the department does. DHR will work to make the workplace more inclusive for transgender employees, enhance access to systems for people with disabilities and build stronger relationships with the community to better connect the work the department does for the City government to the impact it has on the public.

Seventy-three percent of respondents to the DHR culture and climate survey feel that racial equity is a part of their job, yet only 40% of respondents felt they had the tools to address racial disparities in their work. DHR will do the necessary work in the coming months and years to improve these outcomes. This section outlines strategies to further embed racial equity into the culture of DHR and the citywide workplace.

Appendix A: Report Preparation

In preparing this report, DHR examined these priority areas through workshops, surveys, and stakeholder input. The ideas and commitments in this report come from stakeholders such as the Mayor's Task Force to address Racial Inequities, joint labor-management committees on fairness, equity, and inclusion and the DHR Racial Equity Workgroup.

The DHR Racial Equity Workgroup is made up of 18 DHR employees who have volunteered since 2018 to focus on issues of race and equity in the Department of Human Resources. The Racial Equity Workgroup is comprised of staff with a wide array of human resources experience and who represent every DHR division. DHR's executive team has created an additional working group to focus on senior level diversity and equity initiatives.

The DHR Policy Division drafted this report based on the input received from department staff. The department held six hour-long workshops open to all DHR employees, each workshop detailing a report section, to solicit employee feedback on identified programs and policies included in the Racial Equity Action Plan as well as source new ideas and raise any concerns. Finally, the Racial Equity Action Plan was informed by the DHR Employee Racial Equity Survey, detailed further in Appendix E. The survey provided space for employees to anonymously contribute concerns and suggestions for the department.

Thank you to the DHR staff who attended Racial Equity Workshops and completed the Employee Racial Equity Survey. A large thank you and acknowledgement to the Racial Equity Workgroup whose thoughtful contributions created a detailed plan for the Departments journey towards Racial Equity.

Appendix B: Glossary

ANTI-RACISM

Anti-Racism is defined as the work of actively opposing racism by advocating for changes in political, economic, and social life. Anti-racism tends to be an individualized approach and set up in opposition to individual racist behaviors and impacts.

CULTURE

A social system of meaning and custom that is developed by a group of people to assure its adaptation and survival. These groups are distinguished by a set of unspoken rules that shape values, beliefs, habits, patterns of thinking, behaviors and styles of communication.

DIVERSITY

Diversity includes all the ways in which people differ, and it encompasses all the different characteristics that make one individual or group different from another. It is all-inclusive and recognizes everyone and every group as part of the diversity that should be valued. A broad definition includes not only race, ethnicity, and gender — the groups that most often come to mind when the term "diversity" is used — but also age, national origin, religion, disability, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, education, marital status, language, and physical appearance. It also involves different ideas, perspectives, and values.

IMPLICIT BIAS

Also known as unconscious or hidden bias, implicit biases are associations that people unknowingly hold. They are expressed automatically, without conscious awareness. Many studies have indicated that implicit biases affect individuals' attitudes and actions, thus creating real-world implications, even though individuals may not even be aware that those biases exist within themselves. Notably, implicit biases have been shown to trump individuals' stated commitments to equality and fairness, thereby producing behavior that diverges from the explicit attitudes that many people profess.

RACISM

Racism is different from racial prejudice, hatred, or discrimination. Racism involves one group having the power to carry out systematic discrimination through the institutional policies and practices of the society and by shaping the cultural beliefs and values that support those racist policies and practices.

BELONGING

Belonging means more than having access, it means having a meaningful voice, and being afforded the opportunity to participate in the design of political, social, and cultural structures.

EQUITY

Full and equal access to opportunities, power, and resources, whereby all people may thrive and prosper regardless of demographics.

INSTITUTIONAL RACISM

Refers to institutional and cultural practices that perpetuate racial inequality. Benefits are structured to advantage powerful groups at the expense of others. (e.g. racial profiling by law enforcement, Jim Crow segregation laws, grocery store redlining practices.)

INTERPERSONAL RACISM

Racism that occurs between individuals. It is the holding of negative attitudes towards a different race or culture. Interpersonal racism often follows a victim/ perpetrator model. (e.g. hate speech or symbols.)

INTERSECTIONALITY

A concept and frame coined by Professor Kimberlé Crenshaw in 1989 that describes a lens for seeing the way in which various forms of inequality often operate together and exacerbate each other. Rather than seeing race inequality as separate from inequality based on gender, class, sexuality or immigrant status, for example, it recognizes that some people are subject to all of these, and the experience is not just the sum of its parts.

OCCUPATIONAL SEGREGATION

The separation of workers into different industries or seniority levels based on demographics, occurs across numerous intersections of race, gender, nativity, and physical and cognitive disability.

ETHNICITY

A social construct that divides people into smaller social groups based on characteristics such as shared sense of group membership, values, behavioral patterns, language, political and economic interests, history and ancestral geographical base. (e.g. of different ethnic groups are: Cape Verdean, Haitian, African American (Black); Chinese, Korean, Vietnamese (Asian); Cherokee, Mohawk, Navaho (Native American); Cuban, Mexican, Puerto Rican (Latino); Polish, Irish, and Swedish (White))

SYSTEMIC RACISM

The joint operation of institutions to produce racialized outcomes, even in the absence of racist intent. Indicators include power inequalities, unequal access to opportunities, and differing policy outcomes by race. Systemic racism is cumulative, pervasive, and durable. (e.g. Prison industrial complex, unequal educational outcomes.)

RACIAL EQUITY

A set of social justice practices, rooted in a solid understanding and analysis of historical and present-day oppression, aiming towards a goal of fairness for all. As an outcome, achieving racial equity would mean living in a world where race is no longer a factor in the distribution of opportunity. As a process, we apply racial equity when those most impacted by the structural racial inequities are meaningfully involved in the creation and implementation of the institutional policies and practices that impact their lives.

Appendix C: Press Release: Independent Review of Equal Employment Opportunity

Posted Monday, November 02, 2020

An independent review will be led by former National Labor Relations Board Chairman William Gould and will be conducted alongside separate review by City Controller

San Francisco, CA — Mayor London N. Breed and Acting Human Resources Director Carol Isen today announced an independent and comprehensive review of the City’s workplace policies and practices with a focus on claims of bias, harassment, discrimination, and retaliation. The investigation will be conducted by William B. Gould IV, Charles A. Beardsley Professor of Law, Emeritus, at the Stanford Law School. This investigation will be in addition to other efforts by the City to review and address concerns raised by employees about hiring, discipline, and retention practices with the goal of restoring employee confidence and trust in the Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) complaint process.

This announcement follows Mayor Breed’s Executive Directive 18-02, issued in September 2018, which established consistent standards for employee recruitment, retention, and tracking of disciplinary actions with the goal of increasing diversity in the City’s workforce and ensuring the workplace is place free from harassment, bias, and discrimination. Additionally, in response to concerns raised by San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency (SFMTA) employees, in October 2018, Mayor Breed appointed an independent ombudsperson to review and make recommendations on reforms needed to ensure transparency, accountability, and the appropriate resolution of employee EEO claims at the SFMTA.

“We appreciate Professor Gould bringing in his expertise and experience to ensure that we are doing everything we can so that the structures we have in place are not creating a discriminatory environment in any way,” said Mayor Breed. “Our workplaces need to be safe and welcoming spaces for all our workers, and that starts with making sure we have the right policies and procedures in place.”

Carol Isen began serving as Acting Human Resources Director in October and has been committed to cultivating a culture of respect, accountability, and belonging, as well as other structural changes that will create better transparency for EEO claims to better serve City employees.

“Professor Gould, with his long career as a leading intellectual and practitioner in the field of labor and employment law and civil rights,” said Acting Human Resources Director Carol Isen. “As a third-party neutral arbitrator and factfinder, is eminently qualified to lead us through a comprehensive, neutral and fair review of our EEO complaint and investigatory processes to ensure they work for all employees.”

“I am honored to receive and accept this charge,” said Professor William Gould. “The people of San Francisco expect a government that functions judiciously and efficiently. I am committed to a thorough and independent examination, which will be fair, equitable and constructive. I look forward to working with all the concerned parties in this endeavor.”

In addition to Professor Gould’s investigation, City Controller Ben Rosenfield will also conduct a review of the EEO Division’s internal controls and workflow, in order to assess any weaknesses in EEO’s business processes that exposed the City to the misrepresentations made by one of its managers.

“We look forward to performing a comprehensive review of the existing EEO process and providing practical recommendations that will assist the Department of Human Resources in restructuring their EEO systems to better serve the employees of the City and County of San Francisco,” said Ben Rosenfield, City Controller.

City data shows persistent inequities in the City workforce with respect to wages, and promotional opportunities. Most notably, in comparison to other races, Black employees overall hold lower-paying positions, are disciplined more frequently, and file more claims of harassment or discrimination than their colleagues of other ethnicities file. The review will include interviews, listening sessions, research of existing City policies, examination of relevant documents, and identifying best practices from comparable jurisdictions.

“Black and Latinx employees of the City and County of San Francisco experience disproportionately adverse treatment,” said Sheryl Davis, Executive Director of the Human Rights Commission. “This examination of the City’s EEO process comes at a pivotal time in City government when these employees are demanding equitable treatment.”

Professor Gould will focus on:

- The core provisions of the Equal Employment Opportunity Act: The City’s current structure for receiving, investigating, and resolving employee claims of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and other prohibited behavior in the workplace. This includes reviewing past processes, outcomes, and findings in employee EEO complaints;
- Corrective Action and Discipline: Methods to ensure behavior found to be a violation of the City’s workplace policies are addressed using fair and equal corrective action practices;
- Data and Reporting: Recommend best practices to track and report data regarding employee hiring, discipline, and termination with a focus on gender and race;
- Training: Review the effectiveness of current training practices for managers and supervisors and identifying additional support needed for these individuals in order to better supervise and resolve conflicts with employees from diverse backgrounds; and
- Restorative practices: Such as mediation and other innovative dispute resolution techniques which could be utilized to address and remedy allegations of workplace discrimination claims.

The City and County of San Francisco employs over 38,000 people and is home to over 60 departments that provide vital public services to City residents. Every City department, manager, and employee plays a part in shifting the culture in the City’s workplaces and is responsible for ensuring workspaces are free from bias, harassment, and discrimination.

Professor Gould will have access to any appropriate City departments, records, and information deemed necessary to conduct this review. He will work collaboratively with elected officials, the Human Resources Department, Human Rights Commission, Office of Racial Equity, City agencies, labor stakeholders, employees, and other community stakeholders to receive input and make recommendations to the Department of Human Resources within 120 days. His work is expected to begin November 30th.

About William B. Gould IV

William B. Gould IV is Charles A. Beardsley Professor of Law, Emeritus, at Stanford Law School. A prolific scholar of labor and discrimination law, Gould has been an influential voice in worker–management relations for more than fifty years and served as Consultant to the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (1966-1967) where he conciliated alleged unlawful employment practices, developed proposals for the conciliation process, and provided recommendations for the resolution of discrimination claims involving seniority which became the basis for early federal court interpretations of Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. He served as Chairman of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB, 1994–98) and subsequently Chairman of the California Agricultural Labor Relations Board (2014-2017). Professor Gould has been a member of the National Academy of Arbitrators since 1970.

As NLRB Chairman, he played a critical role in bringing the 1994–95 baseball strike to its conclusion and has arbitrated and mediated more than two hundred labor disputes, including the 1992 and 1993 salary disputes between the Major League Baseball Players Association and the Major League Baseball Player Relations Committee. He served as Secretary, Labor and Employment Law Section, American Bar Association (1980-81) as well as Independent Monitor for FirstGroup America, addressing freedom-of-association complaints (2008–10). Gould also served as Special Advisor to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development on project labor agreements (2011–12). A critically acclaimed author of ten books and more than sixty law review articles, Professor Gould is the recipient of five honorary doctorates for his significant contributions to the fields of labor law and labor relations.

Appendix E: DHR Employee Racial Equity Survey

Building on prior employee engagement surveys conducted over the past several years, in Fall 2020, DHR conducted an employee survey focused on racial equity. The survey was completed by approximately 41% of DHR staff. Respondents came from all divisions and all racial and ethnic categories.

Survey results provided insight into the current culture at DHR and identified areas for department improvement. Themes from the survey informed the creation of DHR's Racial Equity Action Plan, particularly with respect to DHR's internal department operations.

Survey Key Takeaway

A positive and encouraging result from this survey showed that 94% of respondents reported they care about the results this department achieves. DHR's staff are dedicated to providing fair and excellent Human Resources support to the City and are also deeply committed to the racial equity work ahead. The initiatives outlined in DHR's Racial Equity Action Plan will require the support, time and work of the existing staff. Thematically, DHR identified three areas for improvement:

- 1) Time and Resources
- 2) Performance Management
- 3) Organizational Culture and Trust Building

Time and Resources

DHR is not a large department but has significant citywide responsibilities. Survey respondents noted that there are challenges in doing the existing work, supporting staff and developing innovative policy and procedures within existing staffing levels. Both managers and staff feel stretched.

"We either need more personnel resources, more latitude with regard to Civil Service rules, or we need to get out of crisis mode so that we have time to thoughtfully plan, develop and implement racial equality work in addition to existing assignments"

A significant majority (83%) of respondents feel supported by their supervisors and most are proud and inspired to work for department²². The majority of respondents reported that their supervisors provide them with the support and feedback they needed, however staff also noted that managers and supervisors are too busy to support them as much as they would like.

²² See question 7 results.

In the coming years DHR will provide additional support to managers and supervisors so that they, in turn, can better support all employees. DHR understands the expectations on supervisors to provide the proactive assistance, mentoring and check ins to their staff cannot be met when they are overwhelmed themselves.

"My manager is really busy and I'd like more one-on-one time . But, overall, my manager is great, just very busy."

"My supervisor is very supporting. The reasons for my "agree" vs "strongly agree" responses are due to the fact that she is overwhelmed with work as we are very backlogged and understaffed"

In addition, 85% of respondents reported that having more time to get involved would help them to become actively involved in racial equity at DHR.²³ DHR staff are engaged and excited about racial equity, but time seems to be a constraint. Moving forward with the Racial Equity Action plan, DHR will incorporate scheduled opportunities during work hours for employees to engage with equity initiatives and learning.

Performance Management: DHR requires that that all staff receive regular feedback on their work performance and an annual performance plan and evaluation (PPAR). Ninety percent of respondents noted that they did receive a yearly PPAR; however, 14% of respondents did not feel the PPAR process works well to fairly rate their performance and an additional 38% neither agreed nor disagreed. As a result of this internal feedback, as well as citywide feedback, DHR's Racial Equity Action plan includes further revisions of the PPAR templates to include opportunities for professional development and career goals. DHR wants its' employees to receive regular, timely feedback from managers and supervisors and to ensure that employees have an opportunity to discuss their career goals so that they can receive support from managers.

Organizational Culture and Trust Building

When asked for identifying information, though the survey reiterated all data would be reported on disaggregated, respondents marked "prefer not to answer". This answer was especially used in asking for which Division the respondent belonged in, where 28 of the 73 respondents marked prefer not to answer. This data indicates there is still more work to do on creating a safe space and a culture of inclusion and belonging within DHR. In report Section 6: Organizational Culture of Inclusion and Belonging accountability measures to increase staff trust in DHR's leadership are further discussed as an action item.

San Franciscans in need of food, shelter, COVID-related medical attention, other emergency social services, non-English services	COVID-19 – Disaster Service Worker (DSW) and Volunteer Recruitment and Deployment			San Francisco’s most vulnerable have been hit hardest by the COVID-19 emergency. In any declared emergency, DHR is tasked with deploying City employees as Disaster Service Workers (DSWs) and operating the Emergency Volunteer Center to empower and direct members of the public who would like to serve the City.	DHR has deployed an unprecedented number of City employee DSWs in a multitude of roles, including supporting the City’s feeding efforts, hotel and other sheltering programs, medical response and support, translation services, and outreach to vulnerable communities. DHR has recruited and deployed volunteers to support the City’s medical response, particularly the remote care clinics, and recruited and directed volunteers to nonprofit feeding efforts.

* In FY 2019-2020, 71% of DHR’s budget was Workers’ Compensation, which is primarily workers’ compensation benefit payments that are legally mandated, making the budget effectively non-discretionary. DHR provided both the percentage of total budget and percentage of budget, excluding Workers’ Compensation.

 The COVID-related costs could not be broken out by stakeholder engagement
